2018 Indigenous Ear Health Workshop

Where: Crown Convention Centre, Perth WA

Indigenous Ear Health is an area close to the hearts of many health professionals in Australia. In an era of new technologies, ever expanding research and evidence based practice, there are increasing demands on the Ear Health professional to translate this to the patient. This workshop aims to provide an overview of the current practice, evidence and management of Indigenous Ear Health, with a practical focus on what every one of us can do to make a difference in our patients both now and into the future.

Theme:
"Indigenous Ear Health for the Future – What we can all do to make a difference"
